Writing a Report on a US President (plus a Rubric)

Getting Started:
First, read about the President you will be writing the report on. Read as much information about the President as you can find. Try the Internet and the library; try Whitehouse.gov, presidentsusa.net, .ipl.org/div/potus/, an encyclopedia, books, or even videos.

As you're finding out about your President, take notes on key information, such as important dates, critical events in the President's life, people who influenced his life, major world events during his life, etc.

The Structure of Your Report:
Start your report with an introductory paragraph that introduces the President and summarizes his life. Then write at least four to five paragraphs that clearly describe your President. Each paragraph should cover one topic (for example, you should have at least one paragraph that describes the President's early life). The report should be in three major sections, early life (pre-presidency), the presidency, and post-presidency. End the report with a closing paragraph that summarizes what you wrote and learned, plus the President's legacy.

Finally, cite your references (see the section below on formats for your bibliography).

Check that your grammar, spelling, and punctuation are correct. Make sure to use complete sentences and write neatly! Define any technical terms that you use. Proofread your report for errors before you hand it in -- do not hand in a rough draft.

Topics to Research and Include in Your Report:
When you write your report, try to include as many of the following topics as you can:

- Early Life:
  - Date and place of birth
  - Parents (including occupations)
  - Siblings (brothers and sisters) and other close family members
  - Education
  - Important people or event(s) that molded this person's character
  - Early career
  - Marriage, children
  - What led to this person running for President

- The Presidency:
  - Term(s) of office
  - Political party affiliation
  - Vice-President
  - Important events/acts that occurred during this Presidency
  - People who influenced this President

- After the Presidency:
  - Place of residence
  - Activities the President did during this time
  - Date and cause of death
Citing Your References: When you write your bibliography, list all of your references. Formats for each type of publication follows (there are different formats for different media):

- Web Site: Author(s) if appropriate. Title of Site or web page. URL of site, date of publication (the earliest copyright year listed).
- Book: Author(s). Title of book. Edition. Location of publisher: Name of Publisher, year of publication.
- Encyclopedia: Title of encyclopedia, volume of encyclopedia used. Location of publisher: Name of Publisher, year of publication, pages where the article is located.
- Magazine or Journal: Author(s). "Title of article." Name of magazine, Volume.issue (date): pages where the article is located.

Author(s) are listed last name first, first name or initials (as cited in the publication).

For example: "Enchanted Learning" would be cited as follows:

Another format for Internet sources is as follows:

Last name, First name of author. Title of Page. Name of the publisher (EnchantedLearning.com in our case). Date the page was created (at Enchanted Learning, this is the earliest date on the copyright notice located at the bottom of each page), Date of revision (at Enchanted Learning, we do not keep track of page revisions).
The Following is a Rubric For Assessing each Part of Your Research Report:
