

Meet the Principal

Kascie Blough is excited to have the opportunity to open and lead Hill Elementary. She comes to Denton with more than a decade of experience in education. She values building relationships and continuous growth of both students and adults.

She is excited to get to grow the learners in the community that her family calls home. She and her husband are raising a daughter and son to be inclusive and problem solvers as Hill Dolphins.

Our Name Sake

Hill Elementary is named for Fred Hill, who was the first African American male to serve on the Denton ISD Board of School Trustees.

Mr. Hill served in Korea and West Germany before being stationed in Vietnam during the Vietnam War. He rose to the rank of Lt. Colonel. After his service in the military, Mr. Hill moved back to Denton and established People's Funeral Home which is still operational today.

A prominent figure in the Denton community, Mr. Hill was appointed to the Denton ISD Board of School Trustees on April 8, 1978. He was then elected to the Board of School Trustees on April 7, 1979 and served in both the president and vice president roles throughout his terms.

STEM education in elementary school integrates science, technology, engineering, and mathematics into hands-on, problem-solving activities to spark curiosity and critical thinking. It encourages students to explore real-world challenges, develop creativity, and build foundational skills for future learning and innovation.

House System

Houses provide students with a chance to belong to a supportive group, team, and extended family. This structure fosters unity among students and staff across grade levels and within classrooms, promoting a positive school culture. It allows older students to take on leadership roles and serve as positive role models for younger peers. We are excited to grow relationships with our house system at Hill!
